

Queen will be chosen Friday

Nine beautiful girls will parade on Friday night for the final time — and one of them will be overcome with joy, as Summerland bestows upon her the highest honor a community such as this can give. For she will be named queen of the Summerland 1960 Fall Fair. Two others will also be honored, being named as princesses for the event.

Almost immediately the new queen will be called upon to represent this community at numerous functions, among them, later, being the Kelowna Regatta; and the Penticton Peach Festival.

Candidates are Caroline Read sponsored by Teen Town; Linda Betuzzi, Yacht Club; Alice Vogel, Kinsmen; Donna Butler, Rotary; Elspeth Tavender, Old Age Pensioners; Marjorie Brake, Fire Department; Sigrun Meierhofer, Retail Merchants; Carol Anderson, Canadian Legion; and Judy McGillivray, Kiwanis.

The girls will serve strawberry shortcake and coffee to those attending the board of trade's Dessert Party, in the IOOF Hall on Friday.

Register now for voter's list

Provincial Registrars of Voters are now taking steps to bring their lists up to date. E. Ross Oatman, Registrar of Voters at the Court House, Kelowna, who is responsible for the South Okanagan Electoral District advises that a campaign of registration is now being carried out in this district for a two week period which ends June 30. A postcard has been mailed to every person who is on the provincial voters list in the South Okanagan Electoral District, so those persons who have not received postcards will know they are not on the voters list.

Registration centres have been set up throughout the district, particulars of which are set out in the advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue. In the main, persons who will not be on the list at the present time will be newcomers to the district during the past four years; new Canadian citizens and young people who have become 19 years of age since the last election.

To be entitled to be registered as a voter, a person must be a Canadian citizen, British subject, 19 years of age, who has resided in Canada for the past year and in the Province of British Columbia for the past six months.

Mr. Oatman points out that if any person not on the list is unable to attend a registration centre, he can have a registration card sent to him for completion by simply phoning or writing the local registration centre, the Registrar of Voters, Court House, Kelowna.

Local registering officer Harvey L. Wilson at the Summerland Groceries, explains he can be reached by phoning HY4-2971.

Plan rejuvenation of "Lower Town"

Two scenes that could be reborn if present plans for the redevelopment of Summerland (Lower town) are carried to completion. The upper photo shows Summerland in its early heyday, sometime between 1904 and 1907, approximately, with the CPR wharf prominently in the center of the photo. Lower picture depicts a water show held some time prior to 1907, on part of Summerland's lakefront. No details were available on the negative. We invite our readers to write in and tell us of items in these two pictures, and persons they recognize. We, newcomers to Summerland, are keenly interested in both these photos. The Review will publish some others of early days in later issues.

Scheme would change it into tourist haven

A Special Feature

Can the lakeside community of Summerland, known colloquially as "lower town", be rejuvenated?

History would indicate it has a remarkable virility. It has more than once arisen from the ashes. It has withstood economic storm, the tide of change that swung the municipality from the lake to the railway.

It even survived the period after the boats were withdrawn from Okanagan Lake (in the thirties). But it has staggered severely since the latest blow, the removal of the highway from passing through the main business street to an altogether different route.

Yet some of Summerland's foremost thinkers feel the community can not only make a "comeback" but can also become a vital part of community economic life.

They feel, in fact, that "Summerland-on-the-lake" can become one of B.C.'s most attractive tourists resorts. As such it would add materially to the financial support of people already in the area, and even provide employment for others as well.

Those who have evolved this project have much to sustain their attitude. For instance, the setting is one of the most beautiful to be found anywhere in the inland area of lakes. Through accident or design this setting remains unscathed by "modern" monstrosities or by items that would obscure the view — which is unsurpassed anywhere in the Okanagan.

No official comment on the plan has been made so far, and no official announcement will be forthcoming until the plans are placed before and considered by the Summerland Municipal Council. The town planning commission will meet with municipal council at its regular meeting July 16.

Here are a few of the items that are (tentatively) included: A complete rebuilding of as much as possible of the old original town.

Demolition of some of the more decrepit structures including the old hotel building among others.

Reconstruction of some of the better ones, on sites where they will conform to the new pattern to be set up for the rebuilt town.

Development of full facilities for tourists, including accommodation, shopping and recreation.

Full use of the new breakwater, and a step-up of this basin into a complete marina, with all attendant facilities.

A sketch and rough plans giving broad outlines and information on component parts of the scheme are now being prepared by J. Russell Baxter, Penticton town planner-architect. These will be presented to municipal council July 16 and decisions reached as to how far the community itself shall participate in the arrangement.

It is generally understood an approach will be made to both Ottawa and Victoria to have the Urban Renewal Fund utilized to aid the project. Under this fund the federal treasury pays up to 50 per cent of the cost, the province 25 per cent and the municipality the remainder. At the same time effort is being made to have all private groups and individuals directly concerned (as property owners in the area) go as far as private purse and inclination will permit.

The project as conceived is the work of the Summerland town planning group with the assistance of a few others. While they have completed the general outline, much yet remains to be done. One of the most important items is to gain understanding and support of the public in the plan and its objectives. For without public support, the plan will fail.

As adjuncts to the main theme there are the following that could be tied into the pattern:

The Summerland Fish Hatchery — in itself a splendid tourist attraction.

The Peach Orchard Park, which has facilities for camping for many tourists, as well as picnic sites.

Powell and Crescent beaches, which provide some of the finest bathing facilities to be found anywhere in the interior — and plenty of parking space as well.

What could be developed: Showings of outdoor movies band and similar concerts.

Scenic drives — to include not only Giant's Head but also the Dominion Research Station and other points of interest.

And — from an authority on tourist attractions, not a resident of Summerland, a plan for a pool stocked with trout where you could "catch a fish for 50 cents". Others will no doubt appear.

ROAD BLOCK SET UP

The road block set up by the Summerland RCMP at the foot of the hill on Highway 97 resulted in nine charges of driving without a licence and driving with a suspended licence. RCMP plan to continue these road blocks at intervals throughout the year.

I remember when . . .

By E. Aldredge

(The following is a compilation of reminiscences and events, chiefly concerning the "lower town". The Review would appreciate it if more "old timers" would add their contributions and anecdotes which can be published in future issues.)

Before some of the remaining old buildings of "lower town" disappear it is only fitting their history and that of others, lost during the years, be recorded. Linked with these old structures are many nostalgic memories and anecdotes, all of which form part of the history of this community.

For instance there are stories of the three major fires that swept through Summerland-on-the-lake; recollections of the boats and those who operated them; and of course, nearly stores, the post office, hospital and other prominent places.

The Summerland Review has itself participated in some of these history-making (for our town at least) items. The original building occupied by this newspaper was burned down in 1924, and there are still in this community those who helped to carry out trays of type and other items, saved from that fire. The Review then moved into the old Felix Hotel building, which is still standing and members of the staff included Walter M. Wright and George Fudge. Incidentally some of the old type from the original Review is still in existence — a little of it in the present office; some at the Penticton News Advertiser and some held privately in Penticton — and all of it in use.

The building that burned down in 1924 was situated where the present Cornwall cannery building is. Still later of course, the Review was printed in Penticton, and eventually absorbed into the Penticton Herald, being revived after World War II by George Fudge and "Tim" Armstrong.

Now let's flip over the pages of history and turn back to 1893 — That was the year the Canadian Pacific boats started operating on Okanagan Lake. Who among our readers can recall going down to the "old wharf" to meet the "S.S. Aberdeen" Or to going back to the old post office — where was that at? and getting the much looked for mail?

1895-1904 And who, as a small boy or girl, visited the old Summerland Mercantile, perhaps to get a pint or two of the precious "coal oil" for evening illumination, or bought some of the candies they sold? And just where was it located?

Speaking of the old Summerland Mercantile, it was a typical country general store, where the sales personnel had to turn from weighing out sugar, measuring out coal oil, or yard goods. E. R. (Ed) Butler, who was associated with it for many years, has some excellent anecdotes of it.

1906. Formation of the Masonic Lodge, with J. C. Robson as Worshipful Master.

1907. The year Summerland as an organized community. (Continued on back page)

Letter from Norway

The following letter was received by Miss Frances Bentley a student in the Grade 8 English of the Summerland High School. The class read the book Kon Tiki, and on further research found the raft is on display in the Kon Tiki museum in Oslo, Norway. Miss Frances Bentley offered to write them for further information. Here is a reprint of the letter she received from Bjorg Christensen, a member of the staff at the museum.

Oslo,

den, April 25, 1960

Frances Bentley,
R.R. 1, Wess Summerland,
B.C., Canada.
Dear Miss Bentley,

As Thor Heyerdahl for the time being is living in Italy, I am answering your letter.

The crew from the raft Kon Tiki is spread all over the world.

The swede, Bengt Danielson has settled down in Polynesia and is living with his French wife and daughter in Tahiti. He has taken his doctor degree in ethnology in 1956 in Sweden. Herman Watzinger has been in Peru for many yeas and is now Norwegian Counsel General in Lima. He has a wife and two daughters. Erik Hesselberg who actually is an artist is crusing around in Mediterranean waters in his yacht.

Torstein Raaby has studied electronics in Switzerland and is for the time being doing communications work up in the artic. Knut M. Haughland is major in the Norwegian Air Force High Command and also curator of the Kon-Tiki Museum. He is married and has two sons.

I may mention that Thor Heyerdahl will appear with a new book this spring on the results of the Easter Island Expedition.

If you ever get a chance to come to Norway I hope you will not forget to pay a visit to the Kon-Tiki Museum.

Sincerely yours
Bjorg Christensen

The Church helps the Mentally Ill

by Rev. Lyle Kennedy

In every community there are scores of persons, and in our great cities thousands, who suffer mental ill-health because of their inability to handle the complexities of modern life. This mental ill-health ranges from minor lack of adjustment to dementia and insanity. It is often accompanied by physical disease. Psychiatrists, ministers and physicians have become aware that they are mutually dependent upon one another as they face the problems involved. More and more churches meet the opportunity for service which the need presents. It is an ideal to make the church a centre of mental health.

The church, perhaps to a greater degree than it knows is such a centre.

1. It has a gospel of repentance which releases the soul from terrific tensions caused by a deep sense of sin and guilt. We cannot overestimate the importance of the cleansing of the depths of human personality.

2. There is a peace which passeth all understanding which may flood the soul in worship.

3. The church provides a fellowship which serves many by giving them a sense of worth, of personal dignity, of usefulness. Recall the words of Robert Louis Stevenson, "So long as we love, we serve. So long as we are loved by others. I would almost say we are indispensable; and no man is useless while he has a friend."

4. The church enlists men and women, youths and children, in a great cause, which has the tendency to draw people out of themselves and thus make life more worthwhile.

5. The influence of the church upon the home protects it from evil influences.

rids it of tensions and frictions, develops in it faith, love, charity, hope and other Christian virtues. This all makes for the mental health of the members of the family.

6. The church's larger service to the aged is notable. In many churches this might receive larger attention.

7. The counseling program of many ministers is of great value in promoting mental health. The circulation of well chosen books on religion and hygiene is a valuable service.

The idea of the church as a centre of mental health presents a great opportunity in line with the practice of Jesus and the Apostles.

Scripture: "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." Prov. 4:23.

Our part in boosting Summerland-on-the-Lake

When Summerland was in the formative stages, or even at a slightly later date (approximately that of the pictures on our front page this week) the name "Summerland" meant the lakeside community, now called, despite their objections thereto "Lower town".

In those halcyon days there was no upper town, and little or no thought there'd ever be one. The Canadian Pacific was there to haul out the fruit; to bring in supplies by boat or barge, and eventually, the town had a post office, telephone exchange, hotel and of course ample stores to meet its needs.

With the coming of the railway the "Upper town" was given a forward thrust, and what was on the map as "West Summerland" has gradually come to be thought of as the whole of Summerland. Other changes — through several disastrous fires, increased this effect. Finally, the changing of the highway seemed to sound the death-knell of the once-prosperous lakeside hamlet.

Fortunately Summerland (the whole of it) which has always had men and women of vision as its leaders, had some who could see beyond the immediate present; who could think and plan for a future. Some may term what they've come up with as purely visionary. Those who do may find themselves, in a few years, eating their words, for the plan, as outlined on the front page of this issue, has a hard core of commonsense and business perspicacity at the root of it.

The modern-day thinkers and community leaders who have developed the plan are fully aware of the increasing tourist-pressure from the Coast and U.S. points. The people in the lower mainland are seeking a quiet vacationland, readily reachable from the coast, yet one that has both natural playground facilities and modern merchandizing, together with the altered climate they unconsciously yearn for during summer holidays.

We in Summerland know we have these things. What we've got to do is not only let others know we have them, but to dust the front parlor, so to speak — to do our utmost to support this plan in all its phases. For it can and will touch all our lives, no matter how remote from it they might seem; tourist dollars are "new money" that can circulate into all pockets.

If we want to help this plan we need not wait; we can start at once. "Dusting the parlor" can mean, in a community such as this, many things possibly to many people.

It can mean cleaning up any unsightly items that detract from the appearance of any part of Summerland. How about an active group of high school students or other young people's groups taking on this chore?

It can mean training our people to welcome visitors; to greet them with a smile (as they do in Europe in all the tourist spots); it can mean directing strangers to points of interest, to fishing spots and the like.

It can mean planning, and planting more profuse gardens (we have some lovely ones now, but could do with many, many more.) It can mean use of a coat of paint on houses, and similar improvements.

These are only a few of the items in which all of us can share. If we are willing to do these things, we shall be even more willing to aid the major plan — showing the Okanagan — nay, the entire province that "Summerland-on-the-lake", far from being dying or dead is one of the beauty spots of the west — and that Summerland as a whole is community-conscious of it, and willing to work to prove their feeling.

MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA
Insurance in force
now exceeds
three billion dollars

Dads who know the whole story

get the life insurance with bigger returns

Wouldn't you like to be many hundreds of dollars ahead — when the need for family protection has passed and your life insurance turns into cash or retirement income? Your Mutual Life of Canada policy can bring you such bigger returns, returns far in excess of your actual premium payments.

The reason is the savings which arise from the big dividends you get from the Mutual. The Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada has an outstanding dividend record. Yearly dividends are substantial and when left to accumulate at interest they provide a very attractive investment. The retirement value of a Mutual Life policy-plus-dividends is one of the most impressive values in Canadian life insurance today.

Why not get the story on how you, personally, can benefit. The Mutual Life of Canada representative in your community is at your service, or write to the Head Office, Waterloo, Ontario.

Miss Ruth Dale honored

Miss Ruth Dale was the guest of honor Thursday at a banquet given by Summerland School Board and the Summerland Teachers' Association when seventy friends assembled in the Anglican Parish Hall to wish her a long and happy retirement after forty-three years of service as a teacher in the community.

Caterer for the occasion, and also in charge of the attractive floral decorations, were members of the Evening Branch of St. Steven's W.A. who served a delicious buffet supper under the direction of Mrs. H. Thompson.

Mr. J. Cooke, supervising principal of MacDonald and Trout Creek Schools and past president of the Summerland Teachers' Association was the master of ceremonies for the evening.

Out of town guests included Mr. C. E. Clay, District Superintendent of Schools, and Mrs. Clay; Mr. Reg Cox, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation, and Mrs. Cox, all of Penticton; Mr. Guy Graham, president of the Okanagan Valley Teachers' Association, from Salmon Arm; Miss Dale's cousin, Mrs. R. W. Corner, and Mr. Corner of Kelowna and Mrs. A. K. Macleod, the wife of the former principal of the Summerland High School, from Trail.

The speakers for the evening were Mr. S. A. MacDonald retired principal of MacDonald School which was named after him several years ago when he had served as principal for thirty-seven years; and Mr. C. E. Clay representing the Department of Education.

Mr. MacDonald spoke of a long and pleasant association with Miss Dale which dated back to the horse and buggy days when she taught in the one roomed school in Garnett Valley, and later when she moved to the central school in West Summerland.

He paid tribute both to the Dale family who moved here from Manitoba in 1906 and who were noted for their hospitality, and to Miss Dale for her competence as a teacher, for the happy atmosphere in her class-room, and for her generosity in giving her time and musical talents to all school and many community activities. Mr. MacDonald said that during her teaching career about 1800 pupils had received instruction from her and had considered it a privilege to have done so.

In welcoming her to the ranks of the retired teachers he stressed the fact that although Miss Dale would no longer be active in the teaching profession her influence would still be felt maintained with many of her former pupils throughout the world.

Mr. Clay, in bringing best wishes from the Department of Education, gave a brief biographical sketch of Miss Dale's life in Summerland. She received her education in the former Baptist College and at the Vancouver Normal School. Since moving to the central school in Summerland she has occupied the same room for thirty-seven years in the building which is now the MacDonald School. In 1953 she received the Good Citizen Award from the Summerland Board of Trade. She has been active in church affairs and has played the organ and piano in the Baptist Church for as long as Mr. Clay could remember. He praised Miss Dale's philosophy as a force for good in the lives of her pupils.

Mr. T. S. Manning, chairman of the Summerland School board presented Miss Dale with an outdoor lounge and in doing so expressed the appreciation of the board and the district for Miss Dale's service. Ted Weeks, representing the teachers of the elementary schools, gave her a lawn table and umbrella to match the lounge and remarked on the influence Miss Dale's presence has had on the esprit de corps which has always existed among the members of the staff. He wished her many happy years of retirement, and said that her pleasant smile and helping hand would be missed in school.

On behalf of the Summerland Teachers' Association Miss Amy Yamabe, a former pupil of Miss Dale's now on the staff of the MacDonald School, presented her with an engraved rose bowl and an illuminated scroll which bore a citation composed by Bert Stent. In making the presentation Miss Yamabe said that the mutual affection which existed between Miss Dale and the children was something which her former pupils always remembered, and that she herself considered it a privilege to have been in Miss Dale's room.

Mr. Cox presented an honorary life membership in the B.C. Teachers' Federation and Mr. Graham a similar membership in the O.V.T.A. In both these organizations Miss Dale is a charter member.

Mr. Cooke added his best wishes to those of the others and remarked that he would have more to say at the Awards Day assembly next Thursday.

In her reply Miss Dale stated that she had enjoyed both her work and her association with the board, the administrators, and her fellow-teachers. By means of a very apt "quotation of a misquotation" from Kipling she pointed out that teachers especially today, have so many decisions to make that they need to be far-sighted and to be able to discern between the important and the relatively unimportant aspects of education with which they have to deal. She said that she loved children; that she has found the time spent with them very rewarding and that although she is "laying down the brush and the chalk" her interest in the school and its activities will continue.

Life pin for Mrs. F. V. Harrison

Mrs. F. V. Harrison of Summerland displayed with pride and humble thanks the pin and scroll representing Dominion Life Membership in the WA at a joint meeting of the afternoon and evening branches of the St. Stephen's WA Monday, June 20 in the church hall. Mrs. Harrison has devoted much time and energy to the work of the WA since coming to Canada in the early 1920's. The life membership was presented to Mrs. Harrison on her retirement from office as Diocesan treasurer in which capacity she had served since 1951. The presentation was made at the annual Diocesan meeting at Creston in May.

Mrs. N. O. Solly in her report of the Diocesan meeting brought a great deal of information on the activities of WA's throughout Canada and in foreign lands.

The members brought a quantity of used clothing of all sizes to the meeting which will be bundled and sent at the end of this week to the Shoal River Indian Reserve in northern Man.

It was decided not to hold the annual garden party this year because of the uncertain fate of the rectory.

Annual Rose Show set for July 9th

Plans for the coming Rose Show were discussed at the regular meeting of the Horticultural Society held in the Anglican Hall June 17.

Summerland's annual Rose Show will be held in the IOOF Hall July 9. Prize lists will be available at the district Horticulturist's.

Following a short business meeting Dr. J. Marshall showed slides of gardens and landscapes collected on his recent trip to Europe. The pictures together with his highly entertaining commentary made Dr. Marshall's program most enjoyable.

Nat May conducted his Timely Topics. Care of lawns was discussed and also other garden problems.

A flat of dwarf marigolds was won by Tom Richie.

Club Notes

A most enjoyable evening was spent at the Summerland Co-op by Kiwanians and their wives on Tuesday when the two team attendance competition came to an end, and the winning team was captained by the president, John Tamblin.

This team and their wives were the fortunate ones to eat the steak dinner, while the vice presidents team pretended to be satisfied with beans and bacon. This writer had some of both and they were both excellent. Curiously enough the steaks were provided by Karl Dietrich and cooked by Jerry Halquist, both of whom ate beans!

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Alma Fudge and her Melodiers who sang five most enjoyable numbers. Thank you ladies, the club very much enjoyed your singing.

Next week the club will meet at the usual time at Johnny Selinger's house and we were assured that a good supper will be provided. Don't miss it fellows.

The only business note of the evening was a reminder by the president of the forth coming convention to be held in Vancouver about the second week in September.

100 pre-school children visit school Wednesday

Wednesday afternoon of last week was a busy and exciting time for the pre-school girls and boys who will be six on or before December 31, 1960.

The primary teachers of the Summerland School District welcomed these children for an afternoon of classroom activity when twenty of these youngsters visited Trout Creek School and eighty visited MacDonald School.

One hundred and twelve of these little people are registered to begin school in September but for the hundred who were fortunate enough to attend for the half day of orientation, much of the mystery and apprehension has been removed.

In most cases mother had brought Junior to school but there the mother's part ended. She stayed outside the classroom, visiting with other mothers or slipping off to town to do a bit of shopping. The important thing was the preliminary cutting of the apron strings.

Junior became an important individual in his own right. With a group of other classmates, he entered a classroom. He saw the things they have to work with and learned what happens there. He met a real teacher. He saw some of the things the grade one pupils have learned to do in their first year of school. He learned about the wash-rooms, the playground and the drinking fountains. He tried his hand at some classroom projects and experienced the satisfaction of accomplishment for his own efforts.

Above all he learned that school is an interesting place, where the teachers and principal are ready to give friendly help. If he has trouble sleeping the night before school starts next fall, chances are it will not be due to fears but to the excitement and happy anticipation of entering again, this new and interesting world of school.

HANDYMAN ABOUT THE HOUSE

By GORDON DONALDSON

Pal of mine who makes up in brains for what he lacks in energy was faced with the job of laying a few flagstones to make a path along a worn bit of grass.

Rather than prepare the ground or dig spaces for the stones, he just turned the hose on it, dropped the stones into the muddy mess where they embedded themselves comfortably, sprinkled some grass seed around and went back to sleep.

Patios can be built almost as easily — or they can be elaborate jobs, result of weeks of preparation.

For way they're far less trouble to maintain than nature's product, the grass lawn.

My wife, who tends our miserable weed-bed, claims wall-to-wall concrete is the answer. And maybe it is.

The simplest kind of patio can be as cheap as the same area of sodded lawn, if you make your own stones.

One bag of cement, costing about a dollar fifty, should make a dozen blocks 16 inches square and about 1 1/2 inches thick.

First hammer together some frames of two-by-two inch lumber. Lay them on a flat surface of newspaper or polyethylene and prepare the mixture.

Mix one part cement to one of sand and two of gravel, add some coloring material if desired—red and yellow are the cheapest colors—and ladle it into the frames. Beat it down with a piece of wood.

After an hour or so, smooth with a steel trowel or, if you haven't got one, hammer down on a piece of wood.

Cover over and keep slightly damp so that the concrete "cures" slowly. After three or four days—out come blocks. (They'll come out easier if the wooden frame has been oiled first.)

A gimmick used by patio builders who yearn to leave their footprints in the sands of time, is to press little plywood cut-outs into the concrete when wet, leaving cute impressions which look attractive at the time but doubtless drive them mad after a year or two.

Dig out the area to be patioed, make sure it is reasonably level, then tip in a layer of sand. This should be a good three inches thick to allow for drainage.

Tamp the sand down, lay the blocks, then sprinkle some more sand on top and brush it into the spaces between the stones.—TNS.

munity was "born".
1908. Formation of the Summerland Board of Trade
1909. Formation of the Oddfellows Lodge. They met (at least for part of the period) in the old Empire Hall, which in 1926 was prey to flames

in one of the "big fires."
Jack Kirk tells The Review
he attended an Oddfellows
"do" in that hall in the late fall of 1925, his young wife
having baked a cake for it;
said cake being eaten by a dog, and one having to be purchased to replace it.

1906-07. Billy Simpson
packed fruit from Gartrell Orchard, Trout Creek Point
in old log building which still stands across the road from the Gartrell House. He also started a nursery and greenhouse business on land which is now part of Glen-ale subdivision. This enterprise was destroyed by the breaking of Garnett Valley Dam.

The Review has some items concerning other organizations, but there are quite a few gaps and some that appear uncertain as to dates.
We are asking the co-operation of our readers in filling in these blank spots,
and also letting us know
details of some of the old buildings and houses that are still standing, as well as those that have vanished.

MacDonald School Wins

On Saturday, June 18,
two Oliver softball teams travelled to Summerland to play against teams from MacDonald School in the finals for the South Okanagan elementary championship.

The girls game was a real
see-saw affair with the lead changing hands several times before Oliver emerged victorious after two extra innings. Starkey Zmide was the winning pitcher. Denise Bennison pitched well

SPORTS

Macs win three in a row

Summerland Macs made it three home victories in a row on Sunday as they clobbered Kelowna Labatts 8-2
in a regular league fixture.

Al Hooker on the mound
for the Macs, had a slow start and Kelowna scored once in each of the first two innings. After that he shut out the hard hitting Labatts for the rest of the game. Sharp infield play once again featured the Macs defence as they came up with four more double plays to bring their total for the season up to 19, which must be getting close to a league record.

Macs scored their eight runs in the first two innings also. Three in the first and a big five runs in the second inning.

The three runs came off
three straight Kelowna errors and two singles by the Macs. The five runs were scored on a walk, an error

and three straight hits.
Al Hooker pitched a good game for his fourth win against one loss. In 45 innings he has allowed only 13 runs.
Kelowna could only pick up 6 hits good for their 2
runs while the Macs made 9 hits pay off with 8 runs.
O'Neill was the only Mac to get more than one hit as he came up with three singles in five times at bat.
The next ball game will be this Sunday when Kam-loops will be in Summerland
for a double header. Game time 1:30.

for the losers.
In the boys encounter,
MacDonald jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and coasted to a 4-2 win. Bill Downton who pitched the whole game for MacDonald
was the winning pitcher while Dave Vulcano was charged with the loss. Dave was relieved in the third by brother Jim, who pitched shut-out ball for the rest of the game. Special mention should be made of the excellent defensive work of MacDonald School's catcher and infielders.

Many thanks to Joe Bullock, Joe Makse and Mayne McCutcheon for their fine officiating.

Henly 4th at Kelowna

Vic Reeve of Vancouver
and the University of Oregon won Kelowna's interior championships 1500 metre run last Saturday in the near Canadian record time of 3:54.4. Geoffrey Eales, fourth ranked miler in the Commonwealth was second in 3:56.1, well ahead of Rossland's Don Bertoia
(4:06.5) and Summerland's
George Henly (4:08.2).

Henly, facing "open"
competition for the first time, completely justified
the confidence of his supporters. He was the first high school runner to cross
the finish line and his time comparable to a 4:06 mile,
was one of the fastest ever turned in by a B.C. high school student.

Starting in the pole position (the inside of the track)
George maintained the lead in the opening sprint down
the backstretch, and then settled into an even 65 second pace while the rest of the field of nine fought for position, all but one passing the Summerland entry. Then with plenty of running room as the field began to spread out, George moved from eighth to fifth in the second lap, slowed a bit on the next, but in spite of this caught the faltering fourth man and then set his sights

on Don Bertoia who was 20 yards ahead. Although he closed the gap considerably,
the drive came too late and George finished ten yards
out of third place.

It was an encouraging day for the Summerland boy. In running by far the best race of his young career and proving himself to be among the top junior milers in the country, he finished "fresh", indicative that he is still far short of his potential. Saturday however, was "lesson" day and he'll have an opportunity in two weeks

to show what he learned.
It is expected that Henly
will enter the Vancouver Police Sports, which is also the B.C. Olympic Trials, on the July 1st weekend.
